Total Of 371 Viet Cong Slain In Massive U.S. Bombardment

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. military command today reported 371 Viet Cong were killed in 24 hours of intensive bombardment by planes, artillery and 7th Fleet destroyers.

Four strikes by U.S. Super Sabres caught two companies of Viet Cong in the open near Phan Thiet, 100 miles east of Saigon, and killed 110. Allied spokesmen reported the number of guerrillas killed last week doubled while American and South Vietnamese casualties declined.

A U.S. spokesman reported 30 Americans killed, 254 wounded and four missing compared with 91 killed, 423 wounded and five missing in the previous week. Government forces dropped from 219 killed and 103 missing to 197 killed and 77 missing.

The claimed Viet Cong toll rose to 1,357 killed, the second highest toll of the year, and 122 captured last week. In the previous week, 681 guerrillas were reported killed.

The bombing of North Viet Nam continued Tuesday, blasting buildings, roads and storage areas between the 17th parallel frontier and the coastal city of Vinh and around the old French fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

The Viet Cong inflicted heavy casualties on a force of 60 marines near Hue, 400 miles northeast of Saigon.

In the central coastal plains, South Vietnamese forces killed 100 Viet Cong Tuesday in fierce fighting that involved government tanks around Route 1, the country's main north-south highway. South Vietnamese casualties were "light."

U.S. troops pressed ahead with their big mop-up in the 50-mile coastal stretch near Dong Nam, 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

Meanwhile, thousands of U.S. troops pushed through jungle just north of Saigon today, uncovering extensive base camps abandoned by the Viet Cong.

Only sporadic action was reported with the advancing troops killing 22 guerrillas.

One part of the operational area is on the Viet Cong-occupied Michelin rubber plantation. Late last year Viet Cong units virtually wiped out two South Vietnamese battalions in this area and mauled a U.S. battalion.

U.S. 'All Ready' For Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara today told the United States stands "ready to facilitate negotiations for a just settlement" in South Viet Nam—but not to negotiate a surrender.

To that end, McNamara said in his annual statement on the U.S. military posture, the United States is prepared to continue its military collaboration with the South Vietnamese forces as long as the Communists refuse to stop fighting, and we are ready to cope with any further escalation of the conflict on their part.

His views on the Viet Nam conflict and the possibility of a formal statement delivered to a joint session of the Senate's armed services committee and appropriations subcommittee.

Earlier this month he had refused to testify at an open hearing of the Senate foreign relations committee. But senators were expected to question him today at the closed session.

In his statement, McNamara echoed the Viet Nam policies expounded recently by President Johnson. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Reds' Rift 'Opportunity For Free'

McNamara also discussed the Soviet rift and said: "The contest between the two Communist powers opens up new dangers and new opportunities for the free world."

But because Moscow's strategy is to deny Peking's charges of Russian "conscience" with U.S. imperialism, McNamara said, "we must continue to expect a harsh anti-American tone in Soviet policy pronouncements."

McNamara said there is growing recognition in the free world that the Viet Nam war is the result of Communist aggression and "is controlled from Hanoi, urged on by Peking."

The American effort to seek negotiation is widely supported by non-Communist countries, he said, and added:

"However, there is widespread concern that the warring, particularly as a result of Chinese intervention, and a tendency to let the U.S. bear the main burden for a war that many feel is remote."

McNamara also gave attention to military-political situations in other parts of the world, summing up his basic conclusion in these terms:

"The focus of the U.S. defense problem has shifted perceptibly toward the Far East. Over aggression by the Warsaw pact (Communist) countries in Europe, particularly against NATO and other nations allied with the United States, seems increasingly unlikely as long as we maintain our military strength and unity."

Opposition Sees A Fading Bennett

VICTORIA (CP)—The Opposition took a critical look at Premier Bennett Tuesday and came up with suggestions that ranged from he thinks he is a god to he is showing strain and may need a deputy.

Most of the criticism, during the budget debate in the legislature, was about the premier's reported threat to call an election over a procedural dispute in the legislature last Friday.

Opposition and government members also exchanged charges of obstruction during the day and night sittings.

The speakers: Randolph Harding (NDP-Kaslo-Stokan): "I am convinced the premier is certainly showing strain. There have been several violent outbursts. This is not good for the premier, the House or the province. Maybe he needs a deputy premier. Certainly he needs some assistance."

Gordon Gibson (L.—North Vancouver): "The premier thinks he is a god. The premier is working for the people. For their servant to think he's a god is a disgrace."

Trade Minister Loffmark: "The Opposition should beware of further obstruction because such moves could become election issues. The Opposition was concerned about the possibility of an election this year and it wanted to avoid one it should start supporting government policies."

The new coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans will go before the Senate to ask a vote of confidence next Wednesday.

The composition of the new cabinet showed few changes from the previous one.

Roberto Tremblay, a Social Democrat, took over the defence ministry from Christian Democrat Giulio Andreotti, who became industry minister.

Giulio Tulio, a Socialist, became minister for foreign trade. The coalition includes for the first time all factions of the Christian Democratic party — including its right wing.

Help Reaches Crippled Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—A U.S. Coast Guard cutter reached the disabled British motorship Parthia early today and reported she is riding well in 20-foot seas despite the loss of her rudder.

The Parthia lost the rudder 260 miles southeast of Newfoundland with 26 persons aboard. The cutter, Absecon, will stay with the ship until the arrival of a sea-going tug dispatched from Bermuda, the coast guard said. The tug was expected to arrive in three days.

The winds in the area of the Parthia were about 30 knots. The 47-foot ship, carrying general cargo, has a gross tonnage of 5,566. She left New York Feb. 19 en route to London.

Epidemic Kills

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doctors today blamed the flu virus sweeping British Columbia's Lower Mainland for the deaths of two young people in hospital Tuesday. They were Susan Brown, 12, and a 17-year-old Grade 12 high school pupil whose parents asked not to be identified because of another illness in the family.

Two Dogniks Orbit Globe

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Two dogs are spinning around the earth in a Soviet satellite today in a move expected to help space scientists decide whether they need to send dogs to the moon before men.

The dogs, Veterok (breeze) and Ugolok (little lump of coal), apparently are flying higher than man or beast has ever been—some 550 miles. Tuesday aboard the satellite Cosmos 110.

The highest-flying Soviet cosmonaut, Pavel Belyayev, and Alexei Leonov, were about 310 miles above the earth at the high point of their orbit aboard Vostok 2 in March last year.

Another cosmonaut, Gherman Titov, said recently scientists would have to send dogs to the moon before man could land there. But Russia's first space-man, Yuri Gagarin, disagreed with him.

Soviet space scientists can almost certainly study the dogs' reaction to their flight by means of data radioed back to earth. But they are thought likely to want to see whether the flight has any permanent effects, including that of cosmic radiation.

He Can't Drive Until Year 2011

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The Manchester Crown Court Monday ruled that Matthew McGarhan cannot drive an automobile until the year 2011. McGarhan, a bankrupt businessman who is 38, told the court he had driven with the licence of a dead man.

Bankruptcy Lawyer's Body Found In Trunk Of His Car

MONTREAL (CP)—Police sought to establish Tuesday whether there is any connection between the revolver-slashing of a lawyer who specialized in bankruptcy cases and government efforts to stamp out a bankruptcy racket.

Investigation of the shooting of Francois Payette, 36, was being carried out amid reports that he was slain before he could turn over to police evidence he had uncovered about bankruptcy rackets.

The slaying recalled statements made last fall by Justice Minister Wagner when police were smashing a widespread arson racket in the province. At that time, Mr. Wagner said at least seven persons and perhaps as many as 12 had been killed in an underworld attempt to stop disclosures about the arson racket.

Four lime-covered bodies were recovered last fall in an area south of Quebec City. Later a fifth body was recovered in the Lake St. John district.

Five men have been found criminally responsible by coroners' juries, but none has yet come to trial.

Detective-Captain Roland Jodan of Montreal police said Mr. Payette, found in the trunk of his car Tuesday in the city's north-end, had been shot four times.

Capt. Jodan said he could not comment on a possible connection between the killing and a bankruptcy racket.

Last Seen On Route To Rendezvous

Mr. Payette, a civil lawyer who specialized in bankruptcy cases, was last seen by his family about 9:30 a.m. Saturday. He left home following a phone call to meet someone in a restaurant.

His wife reported him missing early Sunday and a search began for his car. It was found on Lavender Street by a motorcycle policeman Tuesday.

Payette's body was in the trunk, frozen by the weekend sub-zero temperatures. There were no identification papers on the body.

Neighborhood residents said the car had been parked there for three days.

INCREASED PRESSURE The Quebec government started a drive on money-bankruptcy cases in 1962 and the pressure has been increasing since.

Mr. McGarhan found the method of the sting was to form a company, buy goods on credit, sell special to study and report on them and then dissolve the ways to stop the racket. One of firm.

the investigators was Gerard Laganiere, now a judge but formerly deputy chief crown prosecutor for Montreal.

Less than a year ago Mr. Laganiere said that money-bankruptcy cases in Quebec have developed over the last 30 years into a $100,000,000 racket. He estimated 85 per cent of the racket was concentrated in Montreal.

There has been a quiet, but steady procession of cases through the Montreal courts.

The Quebec government may act at the current session on recommendations made by Lucien Mercier, internal auditor of the revenue department who reported last August on a 10-month investigation into bankruptcies. He recommended changes in various laws to make it tougher for the fly-by-night bankruptcy cases.

Leftwing Officers Topple Socialist Gov't In Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Leftwing army officers in Damascus overthrew the Socialist government of Syria before dawn today, arrested government leaders and closed the country's borders and communications.

It is not clear whether the coup was bloodless or not.

News of the coup d'etat—the 15th since 1949—was broadcast by Damascus radio in a series of communiques that indicated the rebels plan to speed up the country's march toward socialism.

Army units seized power at 3 a.m. by arresting Gen. Amin Hafez, Syrian head of state and chairman of the presidency council, Prime Minister Salah Bitar and Defence Minister Gen. Mohammed Omran.

Damascus radio said the coup was a shuffle of power inside the ruling Arab Baath (reawakening) Socialist party that came to power itself in a rebellion in 1963, but the list of those arrested indicated the Baath regime had actually been obliterated.

The rebel command, calling itself the "temporary command of the Baath party," said party founder Michel Aflak also was under arrest along with party Chief Mouloff Razzaz.

GEN. HAFEZ ... power lost

Broadcast communiques said Hafez and the others would be brought to trial and "crushed." They were denounced as "rightists" who had betrayed Syria's Socialist revolution.

Explosive Defence Battle May End In U.K. Election

LONDON (CP)—Igniting an explosive clash that may reach its full fury in a national election, the Labour government announced today it will rely more heavily on air power purchased from the United States while reducing the role of Britain's sea carrier force.

But Britain's role as a world peacekeeping force, while reduced, will be continued to some extent into the 1970s, Defence Minister Denis Healey told an unruly Commons Tuesday as he unveiled the government's long-awaited defence white paper. It aims to curtail annual defence spending to a limit of £2,000,000 ($4,000,000,000) by 1970.

'STOP CRYING' The proposals, which include a shutdown of Britain's big Middle East base at Aden by 1968 and withdrawal of British troops from British Guiana and southern Africa, triggered an uproarious parliamentary and press debate.

The mass-circulation Daily Mirror, which supports Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government, called on sea-loving Britons to stop crying over a navy the country could not afford.

Quebec's Lieutenant-Governor To Lie In State Until Funeral

QUEBEC (CP)—The body of I.A.-Gov. Paul Comtois will be borne into the red chamber of the legislature called here today to lie in state until the funeral Thursday.

The mahogany casket, followed by the fleur-de-lis flag of the province and the flag of Canada, will be escorted by a guard of white-helmeted provincial policemen and an army guard of honor.

Mr. Comtois, 70, died early Monday in a fire that destroyed Bois de Colonges, his state-oficial residence. The body will be taken to Pierreville, Que., for burial after funeral services at the Basilica de Notre Dame de Quebec.

The Quebec legislature has suspended sessions until after the funeral, which will be attended by Gov.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier and Mme. Vanier, who are expected to arrive here from Ottawa today.

QUEBEC (CP)—An inquiry team investigating the fire which took the life of Lieutenant-Governor Paul Comtois and destroyed his official residence Monday, said today they believe the fire was caused accidentally but that it was not caused by the mansion's heating system.

Tuesday, Premier Jean Lesage said that after a personal investigation into the cause of the fire, aided by Gerard Tobin, police and fire chief of suburban Sillery, and Adrien Robert, provincial police director, he and the others concluded the fire was caused by a defect in the oil heating system.

Hatred Of U.S. 'Boon To Reds'

CHICAGO (AP)—A Canadian journalist said Tuesday China freely admits that "hatred of dirty, capitalist American aggressors" is the best instrument it has to govern its 700,000,000 people.

Charles Lynch, chief of Southern News Services, spent three months in China last year.

Crisis Ends For Italians

ROME (Reuters)—Aldo Moro today announced his new centrist coalition government and thus ended Italy's longest post-war political crisis.

Premier Moro is a Christian Democrat. His previous coalition fell Jan. 21 over a bill to set up state-run kindergarten.

The new coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans will go before the Senate to ask a vote of confidence next Wednesday.

The composition of the new cabinet showed few changes from the previous one.

Roberto Tremelloni, a Social Democrat, took over the defence ministry from Christian Democrat Giulio Andreotti, who became industry minister.

Giulio Tulio, a Socialist, became minister for foreign trade. The coalition includes for the first time all factions of the Christian Democratic party — including its right wing.

Five Women Die In Blast

DUNBAR, Pa. (AP)—Five women were killed and eight persons injured — three seriously — in an explosion and fire today at a fireworks plant in this southwestern Pennsylvania town.

Those killed were working in a 25-square-foot building at the Keystone Fireworks Manufacturing Company. Cause of the blast was unknown.

The plant, a manufacturer of commercial fireworks, was the scene of another explosion a little more than a year ago. Only a watchman was on duty at the time and he wasn't hurt. The blast was attributed to spontaneous combustion.

EXPULSION OF IRISH PROTESTED

It Was A Real Donnybrook

OTTAWA (CP)—Conservatives picked up an Irish shillelagh and some old newspaper articles Tuesday and used them to belabor the government on defence policy.

Debate in the Commons on defence department spending estimates for the 1965-66 fiscal year ranged over two main points — Conservative allegations that the Liberals did an about-face on nuclear policy in order to get elected in 1963 and expropriation of part of the little village of Shannon, near Val-d'Espoir army camp just north of Quebec City.

At the sitting's end, Conservatives were hotly maintaining that they would hold up passage of the estimates until the government pulled in its horns on the move to expropriate 10,000 acres of land, including part of the 25-family Irish settlement of Shannon, for a weapons range.

"The first responsibility of Parliament is to the rights of the individuals," Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said in a special plea to Prime Minister Pearson that the Shannon villagers "not be dispossessed of their heritage." He made the appeal to Mr. Pearson because he had given up "trying to soften the adamant attitude" of Defence Minister Hellyer and Associate Defence Minister Cadieux.

Pulling out the stops, Conservative MPs compared the expropriation move to the expulsion of the Irish and to that of the Acadians in Canada.

Mr. Hellyer said several times that 10,000 acres of land near the camp is needed immediately for a mortar and artillery range.

Mr. Cadieux said he is willing to begin negotiations again on the expropriation case and "do everything in our power" to facilitate the "legitimate aspirations" of the families. All the land involved has been expropriated but settlements with the individuals are incomplete, he said.

Earlier in the debate, Mr. Diefenbaker led a concerted attack on Mr. Hellyer. It centred on the contention that the defence minister tried to present himself as the one man who could determine what Canadian defence needs are.

Pope Wears Ash Cross

VATICAN CITY (AP)—With the sign of the cross marked in ashes on his forehead, Pope Paul today led the world's Roman Catholics into the Lenten season of penitence and prayer.

For the first time in his pontificate, Pope Paul blessed the ashes publicly in St. Peter's Basilica. Then Paolo Cardinal Maria, archbishop of the basilica, marked the sign of the cross on Pope Paul's forehead.

After being marked with ashes—a gesture signifying human frailty and humility—the Pope marked the foreheads of several persons in the congregation.

For Lent, Catholics will observe the new rules for fasting and abstinence.

Only today and Good Friday are days of strict fast and abstinence for Catholics, meaning that no meat and only one full meal may be eaten. Other Lenten days now are no different than the rest of the year.

Unchanged is the rule against meat on Fridays, but the starting age for abstinence has been raised to 14 years from seven.

The Lenten period lasts 40 days, exclusive of Sundays, and ends on Easter Sunday, which falls on April 10 this year.

JFK Rifle To Stay Put

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A U.S. federal district judge ruled Monday that the 63-millimetre Mannlicher-Carcano rifle used to kill President John F. Kennedy must stay in the possession of the U.S. government.

Judge Joe Estes denied the claim of Denver oilman John J. King, who maintained that he is the rightful owner of that weapon and also the pistol that killed Dallas policeman J. D. Tippitt only hours after the assassination Nov. 22, 1963.

Estes agreed with government lawyers who contended that since Lee Harvey Oswald ordered the weapons through the mails under a fictitious name, he (Oswald) never legally owned them.

King claimed ownership because he paid $10,000 to Oswald's widow, Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter, for the gun, and promised her an additional $35,000.

King's lawyer, William C. Garrett of Dallas, said it had not been decided whether to appeal the ruling.

The government has said it wants the weapons permanently lodged in the national archives in Washington.

Fishing Trawler Blue Mist Given Up For Lost In Gulf

GRAND BANK, Nfld. (CP)—Four people are beating in deep sympathy with the relatives and friends of those who are gone.

The vessel and her crew of 13 Newfoundland fishermen are thought to have been lost under circumstances similar to the sinking seven years ago this month of her sister ship Blue Wave, which went down with 16 men under the combined weight of a full cargo of fish and heavy ice.

The company advised the families of the crew Tuesday night they should hold out no hope for the men. However, a massive air-sea search—involving six planes and seven ships—was to continue today.

Hope was dashed Tuesday when three of the Blue Mist's four dories were found within 25 miles of her last reported position. Two of the dories were overturned and the third was smashed to pieces.

Sub-zero temperatures, high winds and freezing spray have gripped the area for the last five days.

Premier Joseph Smallwood said in a statement from Lunenburg that "our greatest loss has been built on many tragedies of this nature. The hearts of all sympathy with the relatives and friends of those who are gone." Skippers of other trawlers working in the same area said the Blue Mist II likely went down shortly after she reported she was making little headway in a storm Friday night about 180 miles off the Newfoundland south coast. Fishermen here described Friday night's weather as about the worst of the winter.

The 14th member of the Blue Mist's crew—William Delmont of Grand Bank—had stayed at home.

"I just decided ... to take the trip off," he said in an interview.

He said he had seen the vessel list several times under a heavy load but it wasn't severe and "we didn't pay much attention to a little water over the side."

Mayor P. M. Tessier of Grand Bank said "the whole town is shocked and grieving." Of course this is not the first time he had an experience like this. People are remembering the Blue Wave.

Mayor Tessier said skippers returning from the fishing banks described the weather as severe. "They couldn't stay on deck to cut away ice for more than 10 or 15 minutes."

Capt. Gordon Skinner of the Grand Bank trawler Blue Spray said strong headwinds were when the vessel was last seen from the land. "Coming in is our worst problem—the last 100 miles."

Flow Of Grain To Be Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Greene suggested a broad federal study of grain movement problems Tuesday.

After the Canadian Federation of Agriculture asked the government to nationalize the privately-owned CPR.

CFA President James Bentley also said the Canadian wheat board had advised him that sales of 200,000 bushels of wheat were lost in the current crop year because of lack of rail transportation.

Mr. Greene was present as the federation presented its brief to the cabinet, much of it concerned with allegations of slow movement of Prairie grain by rail to shipping terminals.

After the meeting Mr. Greene said he was just posing a question, but perhaps it was time for a government agency or commission to take a "careful look" at the whole grain handling system to work out ways to make it more effective.

Mr. Bentley read the federation's annual brief to the government to Prime Minister Pearson. Mr. Greene and several other cabinet ministers.

Mossler Defence Makes Bid To Shake State Testimony

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Defense lawyers for Candace Mossler and her nephew Melvin Lane Powers, are striving to shake the testimony of state witnesses against the couple.

A legal outburst at Tuesday abruptly shortened the court day and sent a defense witness, Nathaniel Allen, to an afternoon sleeping.

Allen was comforted by Powers and Mrs. Mossler, on trial for their lives in the 1964 slaying of her multi-millionaire husband, Jacques.

Allen, who once worked for the Mosslers, took the witness stand in a defense effort to discredit the testimony of Edward Barr Diehl, a carnival worker with at least a dozen convictions.

HEARD CONVERSATION Diehl had claimed Powers offered him $5,000 to $10,000 in 1962 to kill Mossler with Mrs. Mossler nodding agreement to the proposition. Diehl testified for the state that Allen overheard at least part of the proposal.

Did you ever hear a conversation in which Mr. Powers asked Mr. Diehl to kill Mr. Mossler, asked defense lawyer Mrs. Marian Rosen.

"No, ma'am," Allen replied. Allen testified that Diehl came to his home in Galveston recently and told him, "I'm in trouble. I done lied at the trial and you can help me if you want to."

"Did he want you to say that you had heard a conversation between Melvin Lane Powers and Edward Barr Diehl about killing Mr. Mossler?" Mrs. Rosen asked.

MENTION FIVE GRAND "Yes, ma'am," the witness replied. "He said something about five grand. I said I didn't know what five grand was."

Under cross-examination by the state Allen was asked: "Did he ask you to say you overheard this conversation?"

"He didn't ask me to say it," he asked me did I hear it," Allen replied.

This produced the courtroom battle. The state claimed being asked if he overheard a conversation was different from Allen's testifying that he was asked to say he overheard it.

The jury was sent from the courtroom and in the midst of the argument, Assistant State Attorney Arthur Hutton remarked: "This witness told me outside the courtroom."

The defense lawyers were on their feet before he could finish, raising indignation that one of their witnesses had been questioned outside of court by the state.

Judge George Schultz demanded order, then recessed court half an hour early to let tempers subside.

Nova Scotia Industry Suffers From Two Separate Fires

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One eastern Nova Scotia industry was destroyed and another heavily damaged in separate fires Tuesday.

A blaze at Canada Fisheries Ltd. fish processing plant, while at Abercrombie, N.S., 120 miles away, the administration building of the new Scott Maritimes Pulp Ltd. mill was severely damaged.

There were no official estimates of damage and no injuries.

The Canada fire destroyed the community's main industry, putting more than 150 persons out of work. However, Canada Fisheries' general manager, David Corney, said construction would begin as soon as possible on a proposed $5,000,000 modern plant beside the destroyed factory.

The fire is believed to have started from sparks in the boiler room. About 20 persons were in the two-story wooden structure when the fire broke out.

Firemen fought the blaze at Abercrombie for more than six hours. Its cause was not known.

The 114-foot by 128-foot administration building, one of 10 in the kraft paper-producing development, was scheduled to be completed early next summer. About 400,000 pounds of fresh

Vanier Institute Could Play Important Role

The social scientist and social worker, trained in new techniques, have started work on a modern approach to prevent what is good and to promote the healthy adjustments in family living required by our changing society.

The Vanier Institute of the Family, according to its president, the eminent Dr. Wilder Penfield, will add to this work through strategic research into family relations, the dissemination of information to the public, and, most of all, as an agency that takes as its objective the promotion and improvement of education in and through the home.

Writing in a recently published brochure, Dr. Penfield described the emergence of the Vanier Institute of the Family as the conclusion and movement to the Canadian Conference on the Family, the needs for the institute, its organization and purposes.

The founder of the institute, Governor-General Vanier, is quoted in the brochure as saying: "This is not a nebulous, over-idealized endeavor, but a project that comes down to the practical realities of everyday living. It concerns the family and so everyone."

Human behavior is largely determined in advance by the kind of conditioning each individual has had in his early years. The social life of any country depends on the nature of its family life. Stability, strength, and creativity are drawn from home experience.

The Vanier Institute is a unique national project. Since it is an institute, its executive action must always be planned and guided by a continuing search for truth in the chosen field. Officers and agents of the institute will gather relevant information in all parts of the country and give help and leadership that will supplement but never replace churches, or welfare and social service institutions. Like the work in a medical institute, study of the family begins with what is normal and strong and only later deals with what is wrong. Study is scientific, but action must be practical in accordance with common sense and changing demands.

Man has altered human society into something new and strange, using science to accomplish his ends with great speed. There is need, therefore, of a modern approach to preserve what is good and to promote healthy adjustments in family living. The social scientist and the social worker are ready and trained in new techniques. They have started to work. But they need something the Vanier Institute can add, such as strategic research into family relations, dissemination of information to the public, and, most of all, an agency that takes as its objective the promotion and improvement of education in and through the home.

It must be obvious that most families exert an influence in society that is constructive and healthy. But, if you look back into the life of the criminal, the prostitute, the teenage delinquent, or the spoiled child, you will come to something missing, something wrong in family life, present or past. Furthermore, the reported increase in crime and delinquency in recent years is alarming to all thoughtful citizens. They will, no doubt, agree with the Vanier thesis that the menace should be met at the level of the family where prevention is possible. Later on in the law courts and the prisons, the cost to the country is already too great in terms of money and human tragedy.

In such a world, there can be no place for the dangerous delusions of racial, national or religious superiority which have so bedeviled mankind in the past. Even if we choose to ignore the wisdom of the great philosophers, the teachings of Buddha and Christ, the evidence of our intelligence or the innate yearnings of the mind and spirit towards a universal brotherhood, the most bigoted among us cannot fail to recognize that he is but a poor fellow tenant with all mankind of this perilous and promising planet, nothing more and nothing less. Brotherhood is no dream today, but rather a hard and brutal fact, brooking no trifling or temporizing. Protestant, Catholic or Jew, black, brown or white; we are bound toward a common destiny, sharing a common hope and fear.

It's one world, or none!

One World Or None!

Until very recently, it was still possible for mankind to club together by race or nation, and to seek comfort in the universal delusion that the people on this side of an invisible boundary line were better in every way than the wretches on the other side, or that people with this skin color were obviously superior to those with that.

No longer. Whatever our cherished national illusions and racial prejudices may have been, there is no room for them now in the shrinking and increasingly cramped world of today. From a space ship orbiting about the world, all nations look the same; jets and missiles know no national boundaries and the heat and blast of radiation of the bomb make no differentiation between colors of skin. Hunger and disease, and the mercy and science that combat them, are now global in scope.

We may not have deserved it, we may not understand it, we may not even have sought it, but we've at last achieved world brotherhood. No sensible man today can doubt that his destiny is inextricably bound up with that of men of every race and creed and color, living in every quarter of the globe. Surely recent history has taught us that the decisions concerning war or peace, poverty or prosperity can no longer be made by us alone, but rest also with the wisdom or folly of other men of other races in other nations great and small; men we have never met in cities we have never seen.

In such a world, there can be no place for the dangerous delusions of racial, national or religious superiority which have so bedeviled mankind in the past. Even if we choose to ignore the wisdom of the great philosophers, the teachings of Buddha and Christ, the evidence of our intelligence or the innate yearnings of the mind and spirit towards a universal brotherhood, the most bigoted among us cannot fail to recognize that he is but a poor fellow tenant with all mankind of this perilous and promising planet, nothing more and nothing less. Brotherhood is no dream today, but rather a hard and brutal fact, brooking no trifling or temporizing. Protestant, Catholic or Jew, black, brown or white; we are bound toward a common destiny, sharing a common hope and fear.

Huge U.S. Auto Industry Faces Furore On Safety

WASHINGTON (CP) — The huge American automobile industry, which otherwise has never had it so good, is facing a rising clamor about auto safety.

It resurrects a debate almost as old as the horseless carriage itself. Who is responsible for the United States highway death toll, which reached a record 49,000 last year and totals an estimated 1,500,000 since auto driving began?

The driver bears his or her share of guilt, statistics show. But critics say the vehicle itself has been fashioned by Detroit with far more regard for style than safety.

President Johnson, who shortly will send Congress a $400,000,000 highway safety proposal, has called road deaths an American problem second only to Viet Nam, a suicidal rate which, at its present tempo, will one day deal death or serious injury to one of every two U.S. citizens.

The auto industry is a favorite target for many reasons, including its size. With a record production year in excess of 10,000,000 vehicles just behind it, it is heading for fresh heights. The General Motors Corporation, for example, grossed more than $22,000,000,000 last year.

Snipers at the American auto's safety record began warming up last year, and the sniping continues in various state legislatures as well as a Senate subcommittee investigation.

PRICES INCREASED

Current models as a result now bear assorted equipment, formerly supplied as extras, as standard fittings. Prices were increased in line with that decision. The federal government here had insisted on 17 safety devices being standard on the models it bought.

General Motors had just announced two additions for 1967—a steering column that collapses under crash stress, to limit driver injury, and dual failure—proof brakes.

WORLD BRIEFS

TRAIN RUNS ON AIR
PARIS (AP) — French engineers have successfully tested a small, propeller-driven train that rides on a thin air cushion. The vehicle known as an "aérotrain" was driven on a short track outside Paris Monday.

It carried four passengers at speeds up to about 80 miles an hour. The aérotrain, a joint project of private industry and government, is intended to carry commuters between major cities.

FAVOR DEATH PENALTY
HAMILTON (CP) — Early returns from a survey on the death penalty by John Morison, member of Parliament, for Wentworth indicate most people favor retention of the hangman's noose. Mr. Morison sent out 1,000 letters asking for the opinion of voters and their friends on what they thought of capital punishment. Early returns indicate a three-to-one opinion in favor of hanging.

BIBLE BRIEF

"Now therefore let it please thee to bless the house of the servant, that it may be before thee forever; for thou blessed O Lord, and it shall be blessed for ever." 1 Chronicles 17:27
Make it your business to know God in your home and the blessings will follow. "The blessings of the Lord maketh rich and He addeth no sorrow with it."

Robert Wolf, director of the Cornell University injury research program conducted for the last 15 years at Buffalo, has said that recommendations are sent to the industry but "stylists are on a higher level in the pecking order than the safety guys, and stylists seem to think that safety is a dirty word."

However, a Ford spokesman recently complained about the company's experience in 1956 when it offered padded dashboards and non-rigid steering wheels as safety extras and sold exceedingly few. His argument: The public doesn't like to be reminded that driving is increasingly hazardous and cares far more about style.

There is also this statistic advanced by one critic: The U.S. auto industry last year, with 50,000 road deaths, spent $8,000,000 on safety research. The U.S. aviation industry, with 1,200 deaths but a lot more headlines per death, spent $50,000,000.

Every time an oppositionist gets up he complains, and better, about the state of the way it is with politics.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I are over 60. Should we continue shots for polio? We have had Nos. 1, 2 and 3—MRS. J.L.

Polio has no respect for age. At 60-plus you are probably safe, but if you want to be sure, a booster every five years or so will assure maximum protection.

Dear Dr. Molner: How does the potency of Vitamin B12 taken orally compare with that given by injection?—L.K.

Potency may not be the right word, because B12 is B12. There is a big difference, however, in how efficiently it is absorbed under specific circumstances.

In the case of pernicious anemia, for example, in which the stomach lacks what we call the intrinsic factor, it takes 10 times as much B12 orally to achieve a certain level of B12 in the blood as would result from an injection.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 13-year-old daughter recently received a 12-day series of rabies shots. How long will she remain immune? You might be interested to know that she said the shots were not nearly as painful as she had been led to believe. Apparently the uncertainty and fright were the worst part—C.E.B.

Rabies inoculations give passive protection, rather than a long-lasting immunity as is the case with vaccine for smallpox, polio, diphtheria, tetanus and so on.

That is, the immunity is effective for the time being, but it does not cause the body to create its own built-in protection. Hence the rabies shots are effective only for this one particular incident, and should she be bitten by another suspected rabid or unknown animal in six or eight weeks, new treatment would be necessary.

Her comments about not finding the treatment as painful as she had been led to believe should be of interest to others who have that same fear. The shots are not comfortable, and the large number of them makes the process tedious, but people should not be afraid to have them when necessary. The alternative—rabies—is of course frightful.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that having an anesthetic for surgery sometimes helps turn the hair gray. Is this based on fact?—N.H.

I know of no foundation whatsoever for this belief.

VICTORIA MERRY-GO-ROUND

Marathon Talk About Budget

By JAMES E. NEHRITT

VICTORIA—What's called the budget debate, but is really a marathon of speech, is just about over in your legislature. It has been mostly hum-drum, everyone talking away, with now and then an explosion that is soon forgotten.

Now starts the real business of the session, voting money and making laws. There'll be great uproar, as already there has been, about redistribution of legislative seats. Oppositionists will howl that the premier is playing politics with the Angus report. The premier will say it's the oppositionists who are playing politics, and so there you have it—the premier will have his way, but no conclusions will be reached; they never are in the legislature. It's all a matter of political opinion. It's up to the people, in the polling booths, to reach conclusions. They all ways do, and sometimes the politicians do not like those conclusions, but must accept them. It's the law.

The premier appears remarkably calm this session, though now and then he snaps across at the oppositionists, and now and then has taken to shouting, and a very good shouter he is. I'd say he's saving his real thunder for the redistribution bill. He's determined it will go through in the way he has fashioned it. Indeed, it appears that he might even call an election on this matter, if there's too much stormy objection.

SNAP ELECTION

The premier is always holding the threat of an election over opposition parties, which say they're ready to take on the premier the minute he wills it, but when an election is called, they call it a snap election designed by the premier so that he might, he hopes, feather his own political nest. That's the way it is with politics.

Every time an oppositionist gets up he complains, and better, about the state of the roads in his own constituency. This is time-honored fashion. He says the roads back home are terrible; oppositionists seem to have ganged up, and come to the mass conclusion that the roads are only good in South Okanagan and Kootenays ridings—the home territories of two powerful men, the premier and Highways Minister Gagliardi. Oppositionists insist that what they say about these terrible roads is so positively, and as they so insist, Messrs. B and G, smile their enigmatic smiles, at which they are past masters.

NOT PATIENTLY

Mr. Gagliardi sits as patiently as he can, which is not patiently at all; legislative sessions bore him stiff, and he shows his boredom, yawning and fidgeting and sometimes snoring. He says there's too much talking, and too much politicking at sessions, and he suffers large pains in the neck, sitting there, and he longs to get out, roaring all over the place, roaring roads and driving bulldozers if he had his way had dispute with legislative sessions. He can't see the need of them.

The premier endures sessions. I must say he's diligent in his attendance in the House, except for a few days before the budget, when he spends much time in his office. Other than that he's seldom out, though he usually slips away for 15 minutes for a pot of tea in the legislative restaurant.

When the premier isn't in his place a legislative speech somehow falls flat. The premier inspires everyone, either to lavish praise or biting criticism. His supporters like him there so they may beam upon him in pride, oppositionists like him there so that they may try to needle him, and make him hopping mad, which sometimes they do.

And so it goes—it will be the end of March anyway before the 1966 session of your legislature ends.

Full Confidence At Expo 67 Site

MONTREAL (CP) — Confidence is overflowing at Expo 67—confidence that the big exhibition will be fully completed before opening day, April 28, 1967.

The atmosphere permeates the temporary quarters of the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition high in downtown Montreal's Place Ville Marie, where most of the executives can see Expo construction five miles away by just looking out the window.

"That bridge was finished three months ahead of schedule using the critical path method of construction," said one executive as he pointed to the $100,000,000 Concordia Bridge linking MacKay Pier to Ile Ste Helene, both of which, along with the Notre Dame form the 966-acre site.

Behind their enthusiasm lie the computers that are guiding the course of everything and everyone at Expo.

"They enable us to keep track of everything, and when they talk we take action," said Andrew Kniawasser, Expo general manager.

The computers' major job is to make sure all construction schedules filed with the exhibition are possible, and if they are that contractors adhere to them.

"All participants must file a critical path plan to make sure we know how long construction will take, and when regular construction reports are filed the computer makes sure everything is on time.

"When it's not, we find out why and remedy the situation before it gets out of hand."

Through constant checks and cross-checks, said Mr. Kniawasser in an interview, all construction is on time, and the $25,000,000 worth of building will be underway by spring.

The target for completion of all major pavilions and facilities is January, 1967, a full three months before the exhibition opens.

Despite rapidly approaching deadlines, countries, companies and municipal governments are still announcing their participation.

Tenders are currently out for Montreal's proposed $11,000,000 tower, project, which will offer about the same attractions as the acclaimed Montreal - Paris tower. It will be 1,000 feet high—or 325 metres, to celebrate the 325th anniversary of Montreal's founding.

Will it be completed on time? Yes, says the computer which has digested the details.

Recently Brazil and Kenya announced their participation to boost the total number of nations at Expo to 70, far exceeding the old record of 45 which participated in the 1958 world's fair at Brussels.

Expo will also represent the two Canadian cultures—French and English—with all 10 provinces participating. Ontario will spend $5,000,000 to tell its story and the Quebec government an estimated $4,000,000.

CANADA'S STORY

Graham Bell Spark For Aviation Era

By BOB BOWMAN

Almost regardless of whatever else has happened, there are certain days of the year that are notable for one event. Feb. 23 is an example. It was on this day in 1909 that J. A. D. McCurdy flew the "Silver Dart" at Baddeck, Nova Scotia. It was the first airplane flight in the British Commonwealth, and one of the first in the world.

Alexander Graham Bell is so well known as the inventor of the telephone that his part in developing the airplane is often forgotten. People laughed in 1893 when he forecast that men would fly within 10 years. One famous scientist warned him to stop talking such nonsense or his reputation would be ruined.

However, Bell formed the Aerial Experimental Association at his summer home at Baddeck, and recruited young men like McCurdy, Curtiss, and Selfridge to help him. Selfridge was the first to fly, but in a huge kite that took off from the water when drawn by a fast ship.

The "Silver Dart" was an airplane, with an engine, and took off under its own power. An important factor in its success was that Bell had designed ailerons, movable attachments on the wing tips, that kept the aircraft stable.

J. A. D. McCurdy became Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia, and was able to be present in 1959 when the 50th anniversary of his flight was celebrated at Baddeck.

Only a few months after the flight of the "Silver Dart" at Baddeck, Reginald Hunt, of Edmonton, Alberta, flew for 35 minutes in an airplane he had designed and built himself.

OTHER EVENTS ON FEBRUARY 23:

- 1770 Samuel Hearn made second attempt to reach Coppermine River.
- 1855 Parliament reassembled at Quebec after building damaged by fire.
- 1901 Manitoba prohibition law of 1900 declared null and void.
- 1906 Tommy Burns of Hanover, Ontario, won world heavyweight boxing title.
- 1911 Rock slide on Fraser River nearly destroyed salmon industry.
- 1920 George Haldeman flew from Windsor, Ontario to Havana, Cuba, in 12 hours, 55 minutes.

Second Chance For Ottawa Loan

OTTAWA, P.—The government has agreed to extend the deadline for municipalities to apply for the $100,000,000 fund for the period March 31 to September 30, 1963, as set by the original act.

Mr. Sharp told the Commons that the extension is to help municipalities whose projects were delayed for various reasons such as bad weather, strikes and scarcity of materials. The extra cost of the extension is estimated at about $12 million. The extension means that project costs until Sept. 30 of this year will qualify municipalities for a rebate. Mr. Sharp said that 200 to 300 municipalities are unlikely to have their projects completed by the March 31 deadline. Some municipalities took longer than expected to get their projects to the construction stage. Others were delayed by bad weather, strikes and scarcity of materials and manpower. Some municipalities applied too late to expect to earn much forgiveness, he added.

Earlier this week provincial ministers of municipal affairs met Mr. Sharp to ask for an extension of the forgiveness period. Mr. Sharp said the government was impressed by evidence from this and other representations that some municipalities would suffer financial difficulties without an extension. However, the government had to consider that some municipalities decided against applying or were prevented by provincial boards from applying because it was known then they would be unable to complete projects by the original expiry date. Some municipalities had no expectation of earning a rebate and were taking advantage of the act because of its favorable financing facilities. By March 31, most projects will be completed and about $300,000,000 of the $400,000,000 will have been paid out in about 2,300 loans to about 1,300 municipalities, Mr. Sharp said. The extension speaks in favor of a permanent municipal loan fund.

ANN LANDERS

Insist That Relative Must Use Seat Belt

Dear Ann Landers: We have that she imagined the whole seat belt in our car and nothing but a seat belt. A relative who lives near us is a frequent passenger. He is a frequent passenger. We first thought, well, suggested, and later, I suggested with her to use the seat belt. But she refused. Why? I wish you would write her. All she will tell us is that she would rather not.

We feel morally responsible for those who ride in our cars. According to the law we ARE responsible. How far should we go with a person who refuses to protect herself at the expense of our peace of mind?—HILDA.

Dear Ann Landers: Since it is your car and your responsibility, you have the right to go as far as you wish—like the limit. Tell the relative that you will not allow her to be a passenger in your car unless she agrees to use the seat belt. And make it stick.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 17-year-old girl who needs your help badly. When I was 13 years old my mother took me into her bedroom, shut the door and told me a long, weird story about her past. She said she was a bad girl and described her love affair with another man who didn't marry her. I was the result of that illicit relationship.

About a year later she told me the same story, changing some facts and adding some intimate details. This past year she has repeated the story four times. Every time she tells it she makes it more like a chapter in a trashy love magazine. Now I am beginning to suspect

University Women Concerned Over 'Continuing Education'

Members of the Kelowna University Women's Club have been studying with interest a questionnaire on Continuing Education which has been mailed to women university graduates across Canada.

The questionnaire is the initial step in a survey sponsored by the Canadian Federation of University Women and the Women's Bureau, Department of Labour of Canada. It is designed to find out how women feel about returning to school for further education and to gauge their interest in joining the labour force. The membership of the CFUW will be surveyed in order to balance the sample. The questionnaire will be sent to a control group taken from 85,000 non-member graduates.

Mrs. M. J. Sabra, president of the CFUW, and a survey committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. A. Carr, have spent the past year in planning the survey and in preparing the questionnaire. Miss Marion V. Royce, Director of the Women's Bureau, Department of Labour of Canada, has given invaluable advice and assistance. Mrs. P. Chakrabarti, research consultant, and Mrs. Jo Grunshaw, labour economist, are now associated with the project. The Ontario government, through the Department of University Affairs, has contributed $5,000 to the survey.

The survey grew out of the CFUW's growing concern for the need for continuing education for women in our grandmothers' generation and the acute shortage of professional personnel. It was found that there is a lack of research and statistics relating to women's education in Canada and a shortage of programs geared to the particular requirements of the woman returning to study. This is in contrast to the many and varied programs for this purpose in the United States and elsewhere.

The CFUW, realizing the potential contribution of its members and the growing interest of women in resuming their studies to augment their qualifications, felt that it was advisable to undertake this survey. It is hoped that the results will produce much useful information for many organizations and that it will be of particular interest to the universities.

CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR WOMEN

To quote from an address made by Mrs. Elizabeth L. Clegg, assistant to the Dean for Liberal Arts Programs in the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota:

JOHN STRONG PUTS BUCKS ON SCOREBOARD
Lyn Swanson, Number 8, Jumps For Joy

Buckaroos Come Back Eke Out Narrow 3-2 Win

The Kelowna Buckaroos crept back into contention for the OjHL Junior Hockey League Championship at Memorial Arena Tuesday, defeating the Kamloops Kraft Kings 3-2. Kamloops leads the best-of-seven final series two games to one on the strength of a 6-5 victory in Kelowna and a 3-2 victory in Kamloops Sunday.

Lyn Swanson's third-period goal provided the Buckaroos' margin of victory after they had blown an early 2-0 lead. The goal came at 14:17 on a beautiful solo effort by the starry winger.

He sped around two Kamloops defencemen and slipped the puck underneath Harvey Budarick in the Kamloops net.

The pennant-winning Bucks buried all over the Kamloops squad in the opening frame, peppering 10 shots at Budarick in the first seven minutes. John Strong was the only one able to find the mark during the onslaught, his goal coming at the 6:29 mark.

He intercepted a Kamloops pass, deked out Captain Eddie Begg near the blue line and slipped the puck past Budarick on the short side. Swanson drew an assist on the play.

Strong had a fine opportunity to add a second goal less than a minute later but Budarick sprawled across the goal mouth.

LYN SWANSON

to shut the door on the veteran A partially-screened slapshot off the stick of Len Nyland increased the count to 2-0 at the 12:45 mark of the opening frame. Budarick appeared to lose sight of the puck for a moment when teammate Ken Runaldi stepped in front of him. The puck flew in, between the post and the startled netminder.

Kelowna completely dominated the opening period, outshooting Kamloops by a healthy margin of 10-4.

A bench-clearing fight named Charley Cook took advantage of his first turn on the ice to pull the Kings to within one goal at 14:16 of the second period.

The 230-pounder rampaged in across the Kelowna blue line, lost the puck in his skates and unwittingly carried the disc into the net while attempting to steer clear of the post.

Cook's goal was the single highlight of the dull and close-checking second period. The aeroplane the Buckaroos had flown around in during the opening period seem to take a definite dip downward as their passes went astray and their checks unguarded.

Roy Sakaki, who leads on the same line as Cook but doesn't look big enough to be able to read the inscription on the big fellow's belt buckle, knotted the score at 2-2 with less than four minutes gone in the third period.

He followed Cook's destructive jolt into the Kelowna end where he picked up a stray Buck pass. He scooped the puck over Terry Lawrenson and into the upper right hand corner of the net.

Swanson's winning goal rounded out the night's scoring.

In their last start against Montreal, Bruins' goalie Eddie Johnston recorded a 2-0 shutout. The man given the major share of the credit for Boston's improvement is Pat Martin.

Martin, 27, a centre from Noranda, Que., came to the Bruins at Christmas time in a trade that saw Parker MacDonald go to Detroit.

In 23 games with Boston, Pat has scored 15 goals and assisted on six others. Also, he has had a four-goal night against Chicago and one of three goals against Detroit.

Asked the reason for his improvement, Martin replied:

"I guess it's more ice time, and that swing at Pittsburgh being being traded by Detroit may have helped. I got my confidence back there with six goals in 11 games."

Boston has also been getting goals from another trade player, John McKenzie, 28, picked up from New York in exchange for Reggie Fleming. The right winger has scored six goals and assisted on five in 18 games, equalling his production in 35 starts for the Rangers.

Montreal goalie Johnston has also helped. The Bruins' cause, he was in nets for seven of their eight recent victories.

Boston Accepting Role As Pennant Spoilers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins, once seemingly content to lie doggo at the bottom of the National Hockey League heap, have come to life lately and seem to be enjoying their role as "spoilers" in the pennant race.

Coach Milt Schmidt credits his team's improvement to teamwork, consistency and accuracy.

The Bruins get another chance to play their spoiler role tonight as they square off in Montreal against the Canadiens who are two points behind first-place Chicago Black Hawks and two ahead of Detroit Red Wings.

In other action, Toronto Maple Leafs play Chicago and last-place New York Rangers take on the Red Wings.

The Leafs are in fourth place, eight points behind Detroit and 17 ahead of Boston which is battling to maintain its two-point lead over New York.

The Bruins went on a four-game victory streak a month ago. Since then they have won eight games and tied two in 15 starts. Their eight victories include two over Chicago and Detroit and one each against Montreal and Toronto.

Lowly Blades Blast Portland Move Up The League Ladder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leo LaFline and Buddy Boone triggered the Los Angeles Blades' offensive with three goals each Tuesday night as the Blades scored the most one-sided triumph in their history, downing the Western Hockey League-leading Portland 10-0 before 4,394 stunned fans.

The Blades win, which snapped a two-game losing run, moved them from the cellar into fifth place, with 11 points, one more than San Francisco.

By losing, the Bucks missed an opportunity to strengthen their lead over the idle second-place Victoria Maple Leafs.

It was the first time this season that Portland was shut out by a WHL opponent, although Pittsburgh of the American League accomplished the feat Nov. 27 in an interlocking game. Goalkeeper Jack Norris, whose last shutout was in 1961 against Seattle, turned back Portland after two defeats. He kicked out 28 shots, including 15 in the second period while Portland's Dave Kelly made 30 stops.

Other Los Angeles goals were scored by Willie O'Ree, Warren Hynes, Marc Boileau and Bob Schmutz.

The Blades scored twice in the first and four times in each of the next three periods.

LaFline, who scored one goal in each period, now has 31 goals in season play, two behind Royals and Gary Kulback, Bay-Goss and Les Maxwell hit for singles.

Nelson Maintains Lead Atop WIHL

Nelson Maple Leafs maintained their narrow lead in the Western International Hockey League Tuesday night but Trail Smoke Eaters moved closer to the fourth and final playoff berth.

Nelson captain Mike Loughton and rookie Don Borgeson each fired three goals to lead the Leafs to a win over Cranbrook Royals.

Veteran Howie Hornby scored two goals, the first of them his 200th in hockey and Carl Chawchuk and Glen Hudson rounded out the Leaf scoring.

Lynn Benton scored twice for Royals, and Gary Kulback, Bay-Goss and Les Maxwell hit for singles.

Canadians Making Names In Baseball

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Canada, whose native sons dominate the National Hockey League, soon may have some playing major-league baseball.

Detroit Tigers have 10 Ontario-born youngsters in their organization, including three pitchers on the team's major-league roster.

Canada is becoming increasingly important from a television programming standpoint, chief scout Ed Katalinas said.

"One reason we have gone into Canada is that under the new draft rules players from Canada, Mexico and Cuba are exempt. This means any team can negotiate and sign players as it sees fit."

"And we have found that Canadian players do not demand high bonuses to sign."

John Miller of Scarborough appears to have the best chance of staying with the Tigers. He pitched six innings in relief for the Tigers late last season and did not allow a run.

Four Bucks Make OJHL All-Stars

As expected Kelowna Buckaroos dominated the OjHL Junior Hockey League All-Star team released Wednesday. The Buckaroos placed four men on the team, while the other three clubs placed one man apiece on the dream team.

Kelowna Buckaroos also picked up two of the three league trophies. Terry Lawrenson was the star of the league. Terry's average was one of the lowest ever recorded by an OJHL goalie who played in as many games as Lawrenson has during the 1965-66 season. Terry's 2.50 average also rated him the all-star goaltender position.

John Strong was the other Buckaroos to win dual prizes. (The teacher being named as the all-star left winger, was also voted the Most Valuable Player in the OJHL. Strong finished third in the scoring race with 45 points comprising 21 goals and 24 assists.

Don Herbert, Buckaroos captain, was picked as the left defenceman in the league. Don, besides being an outstanding defencive player can also pick up the points. During the season Don scored five goals and assisted on 24 others to lead the league defencemen in scoring. Don was also one of the least penalized players spending only 29 minutes in the sin bin. Don is in his last year of junior hockey, and his value to the Bucks has been exemplified over and over during the year.

Last but not least the final member of the Buckaroos organization to be named to the all-star team is coach Don Cherry. "Don" has been with the Bucks for four years. Last year the Bucks won the league championship under the guidance of Cherry and this year are looking for their second league championship under his tutelage.

George Brent of Penikese was chosen as Don Herbert's running mate on defence. Brent was one of the most valuable players to the Bucks all year long. He was the club's award as the best player during the year won best forward. George is noted for his screaming slap shot, which town fans and those in other parks a lot of steam.

Dale Sandusky of Kamloops and Bob Stein, Vernon, rounded out the forward line.

Sandusky finished second in the scoring race to Libenite Eric Stashko but leads the league with 21 goals. Dale also picked up 26 assists to end up with 47 points. Stein was one of the few shining lights on the Vernon Blades aggregation. During the course of the year Stein netted 15 goals and picked up 22 assists. Although his scoring record is not too impressive Stein's goal during the year won him the admiration of his teammates and those in other parks.

A Good Jet Or Bad Jet? It Depends On Your View

OTTAWA (CP)—The C-130 Hercules, which has alarmed everyone in the United States, is a good jet or a bad jet, depending on your view.

A parade of 15 Canadian C-130s will be held in the United States, and the Hercules is being used to transport troops and supplies to the front lines in Vietnam.

The C-130 has many advantages, particularly its ability to land on short, rough runways. It is also relatively inexpensive, easy to maintain, and has a good payload.

However, the Hercules is also a target for enemy anti-aircraft fire. It is slow and has a high profile. In the hands of a skilled pilot, it can be a very effective transport, but it is also a vulnerable target.

Mr. Hellyer said the C-130 is a "very safe" aircraft, but it is also a "very easy target." He said the Hercules is a "very good jet" for transport, but it is also a "very bad jet" for combat.

Appendix May Be Protection Against Cancer Says Doctor

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—A physician has found lymphoid tissue, suggesting that the appendix, like some other lymphoid organs, sometimes needlessly removed as the tonsils and spleen, it may protect the body against cancer.

Dr. Howard R. Bennett said his study had developed from a report that the appendix is a small, finger-like organ, which is usually removed as the tonsils and spleen, it may protect the body against cancer.

In a comparable group with unusually high rates of cancer, he said, he found greater danger from those who had only 25 per cent with appendicitis after an appendectomy.

"Basically, most of the cancer patients in our study had developed cancer after the routine removal of the appendix during the removal of a perfectly healthy appendix," Dr. Bennett said.

Dr. Bennett said that the removal of the appendix during the removal of a perfectly healthy appendix, it may protect the body against cancer.

Perrault Sees Election Bid

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Ray Perrault has charged that Premier Bennett is making a deliberate attempt to create a phony election issue.

"This is the third and, I'm sure, the last session of the 27th legislature," he told a crowd of 1,000 at a meeting of the Vancouver Quadra Liberal Association.

"The Premier is seeking desperately to create an election issue," he said.

Perrault said later he thinks Mr. Bennett may use redistribution as a key issue in the campaign. The Premier might charge the opposition with attempting to thwart development of the northern part of the province by fighting the government's redistribution plan.

Attacks redistribution. Most of the opposition members come from southern British Columbia.

Perrault said at the meeting he had received a letter from a small, finger-like organ, which is usually removed as the tonsils and spleen, it may protect the body against cancer.

Coal May Offer Rising Threat To Canadian Gas Exported

CALGARY (CP)—Large western deposits of American coal may some day offer competition to rising United States imports of Canadian natural gas, an American resources authority said Monday.

Cordell Moore, assistant secretary for mineral resources in the interior department, also noted the U.S. oil import control program with having permitted Canadian exports to drop steeply in the last five years.

He predicted Canada's use of U.S. coal will continue to increase for power generation and other needs.

"Our inter-relationship in energy obviously is of great strategic significance to both countries," Moore told the Alberta Association of Petroleum Landmen.

His remarks were contained in a text of his address issued to the press before delivery of the U.S. oil import program, under which Canada for the last seven years has enjoyed a general exemption with voluntary restraint on the export growth rate, has enabled the U.S. to weather various factors including cheap foreign crude, said Moore.

It has helped Canada, too, he suggested, noting he thereby ran the risk of making editorial comment from your press.

Canadian crude exports to the U.S. were running at more than 300,000 barrels daily compared with 81,000 barrels daily in 1956 and they might be jumping along at only 60,000 without the U.S. import control system, Moore said.

"From our point of view, I must admit that there have been times when your rate of increase was disturbing," he said.

"Yet through the co-operation of our respective governments a degree of stability has been attained with our say and of formal control."

Moore noted that Canadian natural gas exports to the U.S. were valued in 1956 and 1957 at 100,000 cubic feet to 1965.

But it is not too far-fetched, Moore suggested, to conjecture that huge coal deposits in the U.S. Rocky Mountains coupled with improved long-distance lower transmission might some day take into the western gas market.

China Slaps Castro Move

PEKING (Reuters)—China, replying today to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's violent attack on the U.S. Chinese attack two weeks ago, said he was trying to blame Peking for his own economic difficulties.

"This way of shifting the blame onto others is far from clever," said a lengthy editorial in the official newspaper, the People's Daily.

The New China news agency said that the full text of Castro's attack would be published along with an editor's note saying that China will leave it to the peoples of the world to judge who is right in the Chinese-Cuban dispute.

Castro accused China of trying to subvert the Cuban armed forces with anti-Soviet literature and of using blackmail, extortion, pressure, aggression, strangulation, piracy, oppression and falsification.

Opening lead—king of clubs.
There is a right way of doing things, and a wrong way. Some are and a few are not. The wrong way works as well as the right way, but that does not prove that the wrong way is right. In bridge, you are generally better off to stick to the right way.

This hand illustrates the point. Let's say you're declarer at four hearts and West leads a club. After studying dummy, you realize that two spades and a diamond must be lost in any line to make the last three tricks, and that the outcome of the hand depends on whether or not you have a trump trick.

Generally speaking, when four to the queen of a suit are holding, you do best by playing the A-K and holding back the A-10. But the tactical advantage of this method of play is only slight, and in the present case you should not be willing to stake the result of the hand on such a small advantage.

Miraculously enough, you can solve certain problems of play by making a less obvious play, and that is exactly what you should do in this case. Instead of trying to guess whether to finesse or play for the drop of the queen, you should avoid a direct confrontation with the problem and let the play follow its own natural course.

The way to make the contract is by not leading trumps. Take the club lead with the ace, ruff a club, play a diamond to the king, and ruff another club, then play a diamond to the king and ruff the last club.

Next cash the ace of spades and exit with a spade. After East-West cash their two spades and a diamond, you are left with the K-10 of trumps while dummy has the A-K. Regardless of which defender is on lead, or which suit is returned, at this point you are bound to make the last three tricks, and that the outcome of the hand depends on whether or not you have a trump trick.

TRY AND STOP ME

By Bennett Cerf

BUFORD RAY, former Green Bay Packer, and now one of the football coaches at Vanderbilt, told Bish Thompson, of the Evansville Press, the story of one of his 280-pound guards who was not exactly a mental phenomenon. One night the well-meaning bruiser came home nursing a black eye and a swollen lip. His explanation: "I just ran into Mike Maloney, the tavern keeper, and made some crack about the Pope. So he took a couple of pokes at me."

"For Pete's sake," exploded Coach Ray, "didn't you realize that Mike Maloney is a Catholic?"

"Yeah, sure, Coach," nodded his brilliant guard, "but I didn't know the Pope was!"

In 1904, the first link of New York City's now far-flung subway system, began operations. It ran from Brooklyn Bridge to 145 Street and Broadway, on a schedule twenty minutes faster than a 1906 racing car can make the trip today. It's not the double-parkings that cause the delays now. It's the triple-parkings, Mayor Lindsay: HELE!

MRS. WHOOSH!—I saw the most adorable hat in a Fifth Avenue boutique today—but it was far too expensive.
MR. WHOOSH! (wearily)—Well, put it on and let's see how it looks on you!

Vocational Training 'Meets Bottleneck'

OTTAWA (CP) — A union leader contended today that a jurisdictional clash between provincial labor and education departments is a major bottleneck to the development of vocational training programs in Canada.

Mr. J. (Mike) Fenwick of Toronto, an official of the United Steelworkers of America (USWA), said education departments are overloaded with other priorities they are giving low priority to vocational courses.

Yet these departments are unwilling to turn the field over to labor departments because they are jealous of their jurisdiction. The training branches of the two Ontario departments are hardly on speaking terms.

Mr. Fenwick said an answer might be the creation of provincial manpower departments following the lead of the federal government.

His paper led off the second day's discussion at a four-day conference on manpower training sponsored by the Canadian Labor Congress.

ATTRACT OBSERVERS Attending are 150 delegates, many from labor unions, and observers from provincial labor departments, industrial groups and universities.

Mr. Fenwick also criticized what he said was a lack of protection for adult retraining programs. "The man on the street hasn't a clue that they exist," he said.

Mr. Fenwick, a vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, reported on a survey the steelworkers union carried out last summer to determine the extent of training in the steel industry.

Four out of five plants had no apprentice training program. Only 1,404 of the 97,000 workers in the plants covered were receiving any form of training to improve their skills.

The metal mining industry was experiencing a serious labor shortage but its answer was to seek recruitments in foreign labor markets. This was "the traditional policy of poaching on the labor markets of others," so often followed in Canada.

MINISTERS SPEAK Monday the conference heard speeches by Immigration Minister Marchand, who is to become federal manpower minister, and Quebec Labor Minister Carrier.

Mr. Fortin said Quebec is a special labor market with problems that cannot be met in a national manpower program. It was concerned about other provinces draining its stock of skilled labor.

Later, Quebec delegates told the conference they did not want to hold separate discussions at periods when the general meeting breaks off for closed study groups.

However, they said this should not be taken to mean that Quebec does not have a special status with manpower problems different from the English-speaking provinces. It would have to have its own program.

Secret Of Lost Texas Mine Finally Believed Cracked

SAN SABA, Tex. (AP)—Five Texans believe they have cracked the secret of the lost San Saba gold mine.

They say samples of ore they have mined from limestone hills 50 miles northwest of Austin have been assayed out at $167.60 a ton by the Colorado Assaying Company of Denver.

The first large shipment of ore they have mined is to be processed early in March.

They think they'll know then whether they will become millionaires.

The five, who have formed a partnership, are Orville and Aaron Cummings and R. R. McCoy of Lampasas and T. S. Lemons Jr. of Bend, a San Saba county town.

The mine is located on the older Lemons' 3,300-acre estate and then land near this hill country community.

FIND NUGGET T. S. Lemons Jr., 46, noticed a sparkling nugget at a low-gang, and that's where they found their $167.60 a ton ore.

Legend has it that 2,000 Comanche Indians attacked the Spanish mine and fort in 1758, two years after the operation had begun, driving the white callon buckles with the ore and men away and shutting down the look them to Lampasas to Aaron mine.

A sample was shipped to Colorado and a report of "gold in them thar hills" came back.

The men then searched for miles through bush that covers the countryside, looking for the source of the gold ore.

But the search always came back to a large, red, veined boulder sticking out from a limestone ledge.

MARKS ON TREE North of the boulder they found directions carved in the side of an old tree. Further east, they came across Spanish markings and two drill holes bored into the hillside.

They theorized that the bluff had been blasted away to hide the gold vein, sending rich ore crashing into an arroyo below. On a nearby hill lay the ruins of an ancient smelter and traces of copper and silver slag, they said.

That's where they started digging, and that's where they found their $167.60 a ton ore.

Legend has it that 2,000 Comanche Indians attacked the Spanish mine and fort in 1758, two years after the operation had begun, driving the white callon buckles with the ore and men away and shutting down the look them to Lampasas to Aaron mine.
